

Method and System for Publishing Reports to a NetworkABSTRACT

5

A method and system for publishing reports to a network is disclosed. In the first step of the method a report template area is initialized. Then report components are added to the template area. The report components are customized. Next, a format for publishing the report is chosen. Finally, the converted report is sent to a database for storage and future retrieval.

15

20